'Radical' ideas for more retail space

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

HISTORIC factory buildings and a 1960s-style shopping square should be demolished to make way for modern retail space in Haverhill's town centre.

Those were just two of the ideas which found support among a group of business and community leaders last week.

They had been called to the Next Steps For Haverhill meeting last Friday by the town's MP, Matthew Hancock, to discuss how the town's development could be maintained in the face of current public spending cuts.

Christopher Gurteen, chairman of the Gurteen textile factory, supported the view that, despite being listed buildings, mills on the firm's three-acre site should be demolished.

He said: "You can knock my building down."

And Richard Herbert, chairman of the Haverhill Enterprise group renewed his call for Queens Square to be replaced by modern shops.

He said: "Our retail offer is poor, you cannot get what you need."

"We have not got the spaces. We have a town of 25,000 people but where is the Primark, Next, Topshop?"

"We have not got the space for them, but we have got to be bold."

Cats beware: Jane Walmsley is desperately trying to trace her beloved European eagle owl Izzy, similar to the one pictured with her here, after the 10-month-old bird escaped from her aviary in Kedington. Izzy stands two-and-a-half feet tall and has a five-foot wingspan, as well as distinctive bright orange eyes. Jane fears Izzy may try to eat a cat if she gets too hungry. See full story – Page 3.

MEP backs battle for care home

RESIDENTS are stepping up their campaign to save a care home for the elderly being sold off or privatised, with support from their Europe MP.

Suffolk MEP Richard Howitt will join town councillor Maureen Byrne and fellow campaigners who will be collecting signatures on a petition to save Place Court Home in Camps Road, Haverhill, tomorrow afternoon.

The home caters for 32 people with dementia and physical disabilities, and offers specialist care for people with Alzheimer's.

Mr Howitt said: "Providing high-quality care for the elderly, and especially those with dementia, is a growing problem across Europe and here in Suffolk – now is not the time to be selling off care homes."

"We are not talking about numbers on a balance sheet, we are talking about mums, dads and grandparents whose long-term care should be a priority. It would be a terrible upheaval for residents to be forced to move from the place they call home."

Hard-up mother forged signature of jailed son

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A MOTHER-OF-11 forged her son's signature on benefit cheques while he was in prison and spent most of the cash on Christmas presents for her other children, a court heard.

Sharon Peters admitted six charges of making false statements to obtain benefits by forging the signature of son Damien Peters.

Declan Gallagher, prosecuting, said Damien Peters was receiving benefits until he was jailed last September, when he was no longer entitled to the cash.

Benefit cheques were sent to his mother's address in Colbeck Road, Haverhill, and the 41-year-old forged his signature to cash 13 of them, with a total value of £662.

Lyndon Davies, mitigating, said Damien Peters had told his mother he was still entitled to benefit payments, but this was only the case with prisoners on remand, not those who had been sentenced.

He said his client was of previous good character and the offence was a "one-off".

Mr Davies said: "At the time it was not just Damien who was inside, but also another one of her sons, Nathaniel."

"She used the money to buy postal orders and postage stamps for them, and to buy Christmas presents for the other brothers and sisters."

"There were seven of them living at home, so many mouths to feed. It is not a situation where she had frivolously spent the money on herself."

"She has had some extreme personal difficulties over the years, in recent times particularly, due to domestic violence by partners who have been very threatening to her."

"She has spent time in a women's refuge because of this. She also has physical difficulties after suffering a motorbike accident some years ago."

"She is still on crutches and not fit to work."

Bury St Edmunds magistrates were told Peters was already having the money deducted from her benefits and they imposed a 12-month conditional discharge and ordered her to pay £50 costs.

Stephanie Challinor, chairman of the bench, said: "This is a very serious offence, by signing cheques when you should not have."

Runner Andrew puts down the cider as London marathon calls ESTATE agent Andrew Gibbs has got his running shoes on, ready to tackle the London Marathon in aid of an environmental charity.

Andrew, 34, will join thousands of runners on the 26.2 mile course around the capital on April 17. The Haverhill man, who is vice-chairman of the Hundon Wildspace Group, said it was a "massive" opportunity and "a privilege" to take part in the challenge.

He said: "This has been an ambition of mine since I ran my first half marathon just over a year ago. The London marathon is such an important event."

"Running around the capital with the crowds and the atmosphere is going to give me a real buzz of adrenaline I need to get me through."

Andrew, an estate agent at Abbotts Countrywide in Haverhill, was offered a place in the race just before Christmas by the Green Light Trust and he said he did not have to think twice about saying 'yes'.

Although he enjoys playing football, golf and has been running half marathons for just over a year, he is a total novice at this distance.

Andrew said: "Although I attend one of the local gyms in town I do enjoy the odd cider or three, which I have had to give up now but I am starting to feel better about it now."

Andrew is running with team mate Tom Stebbings and together they hope to raise up to £10,000 for the charity's Greener Younger Lives project.

The Green Light Trust campaigns to improve environmental education and protect natural heritage. Andrew said running the marathon was his way of thanking volunteers for their help and dedication.

He said: "I can't help but be amazed by the progress we have made in Hundon with the help and guidance of the Green Light Trust."

A section of the road was closed for about four hours while forensic collision investigators carried out their inquiries.

The man's next of kin were last night being traced by police and his name is yet to be released.

Police have launched an appeal for witnesses to the crash.

Couple's fear for cats after owl flies coup

BIRD lovers Jane and John Walmsley are keen to find missing eagle owl Izzy before she makes a meal of somebody's cat.

Izzy is a European eagle owl and although she is only 10 months old, she stands two and a half feet tall and has a five-foot wingspan, as well as distinctive bright orange eyes.

The bird broke out of an aviary to escape from the couple's home in Haverhill Road, Kedington, on Saturday night. She was spotted in the skatepark in Haverhill on Monday morning, but so far the couple have not been able to track her down.

Mr Walmsley said keeping birds was a hobby and they also took rescue birds for the RSPCA.

He said: "My wife was pretty devastated. That one was her baby, she had hand-reared her since she was a week old, and was very close to her."

We spent all day Sunday looking for her and on Monday she was spotted near the skatepark. The person called the vet, who in turn called us. We got to the spot and found her up a very tall tree, with the wind blowing as strong as it was, she took flight again and we lost sight.

"We would ask your readers to keep a look out for her. If anyone spots her please don't touch her, as by now she will be getting scared and hungry, but call us as soon as possible. She normally eats day-old chicks, but in the wild they eat

Pair deny the rape of schoolgirl

TWO men accused of raping a woman when she was a schoolgirl are on trial.

Jason Cutts, 43, of Birdwood Road, Cambridge, has pleaded not guilty to six offences of rape, two of indecent assault, 13 of making indecent images of children, one of possessing an indecent image of a child and one of distributing an indecent image of a child.

The woman, from Haverhill, who cannot be named for legal reasons, was yesterday giving evidence at Ipswich Crown Court.

The offences are alleged to have taken place between March 2001 and November 2005, some of them in Haverhill.

Phillip Skinner, 60, of Kitchen Hill, Bulmer, near Sudbury, has pleaded not guilty to rape alleged to have been committed between December 2005 and November 2006.

The prosecution claimed that after meeting the then 14-year-old girl, Cutts introduced her to Skinner.

Some of the alleged rapes by Cutts are said to have happened on a sofa at his home when his wife was in another part of the house, unaware of what was happening.

The girl alleged she fell pregnant after being raped by Cutts and had a termination.

The trial continues.

Record rower pops question

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

BREAKING a world record inspired an elated rower to pop the question to his girlfriend once he was back on dry land.

After more than 650 hours of continuous rowing to break the transatlantic record as part of a six-man team, Chris Covey stunned girlfriend Susie Easton, who had travelled to Barbados to welcome him, by getting down on one knee and proposing.

A stunned Susie said 'I do' and burst into tears. She said, "It was an amazing and wonderful surprise."

Chris, of West Wickham, was part of Team Hallin, an elite British rowing team which powered into Barbados last week in its epic effort to break the transatlantic world record.

The team crossed the finish line, shaving a day off the previous world record of 33 days, 7 hours and 30 minutes.

Chris said: "We crossed the Atlantic Ocean alone in a tiny rowing boat - 31 days, 23 hours, 31 minutes.

Will she, won't she?: Chris Covey gets down on bended knee to propose to girlfriend Susie Easton after rowing non-stop across the Atlantic.

CP

"We suffered, we hurt, we rowed. We raised money for a fantastic cause and we broke the world record. Was it all worth it? Absolutely."

The team set off from Tenerife on January 6 in the trimaran Hallin Marine.

On their journey they encountered dolphins, saw shooting stars and experienced 30ft waves. They were hit in the face by flying fish and avoided colliding with a 20,000 tonne ship.

Chris, 25, who attended The Perse School in Cambridge, slept for just three hours a day on the trip, but said the extreme fatigue, and ceaseless agony of sitting on the same "unforgiving" rowing seat for weeks was all worth it to beat the record.

The team hopes to raise £60,000 for military charity Combat Stress. To find out more or contribute, visit www.teamhallin.co.uk

'Rock chic' Sarah relives special day

Romantic husband Robert McCarthy thought his wife Sarah looked so lovely on her wedding day that she deserved to wear the dress again – and the experience should be shared with thousands of TV viewers.

Robert and Sarah, of Downs Place, Haverhill, were married last September. But Sarah could not bear to put it away and it has since been left hanging up at her mother's house.

While on the internet, Robert found a site

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

called 'Trash the Dress' which offers brides a chance to wear their dress again in a completely new setting.

Photographer Sara Thomas had already planned a photo shoot at Felixstowe, with Sarah wearing her dress with a leather jacket and boots, as well as walking two dogs to give a 'rock chick' look. At the last minute producers of BBC show Inside Out got in touch to ask if they could film Sarah for an item on brides, due to be screened on Valentine's Day.

Sarah told the Weekly News: "It was absolutely fantastic, we had a wonderful day. I just had to turn up in my dress and all my hair and make-up was done for me. It was just amazing, one of the best things I have ever done and we will both remember it for the rest of our lives.

"On your wedding day everything goes by so quickly. It was really nice that Robert helped me get ready and was in awe of the dress all over again. I just could not let go of it before and Robert knew I wanted to wear it again. Now I can let it go and I might trim it down and wear it as a ball gown."

She added: "It could not be better than showing it on Valentine's Day. Robert is always full of surprises and little gestures, I am very lucky."

Robert said: "I knew she loved the dress so much that she did not want to part with it. I knew she would not want to trash it, but she did want to wear it again. She looked amazing in the dress and the film crew were brilliant. It could not have worked out better than having it on Valentine's Day. I think I have done more than my fair share this year."

The show will be screened at 7.30pm on Monday.

NEXT STEPS FOR HAVERHILL – MOVING THE TOWN FORWARD: HIGH-TECH, HIGHWAYS AND HIGH STREET

Dualling A1307 will 'destroy our village'

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

EXPANSION of the fastest growing town in Suffolk is threatening to "annihilate" neighbouring Cambridgeshire villages.

That was the view of Ester Cornell, spokesman for the A1307 Action Group, at last week's Next Steps For Haverhill meeting, called by West Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock.

Responding to the MP's suggestion that the A1307 should become a dual carriageway from Haverhill to the M11 junction at Great Abington, she said the idea would require compulsory purchase of land and lead to the "annihilation of Linton".

Ms Cornell, who is also Linton Parish Council chairman, told the meeting at New Croft: "We have not got room for three lanes, let alone four. You have discussed it from the Haverhill side, but you need to spend time thinking of the issues from our side."

"We are on the verge of getting a 'no growth for Haverhill' sign campaign. The road is twice as dangerous as a normal A road in terms of accidents and people getting killed."

Paul Cammiss, a Haverhill solicitor, said he was concerned that the Essex section of the A1307, and unless the county could be persuaded to support change, dualling "would not happen".

He said: "There will always be a battle with Essex because they don't want the traffic going through their villages. Suffolk has only a very small section of the road going through it, it is miniscule."

Gordon Mussett, Haverhill town clerk, said much of the traffic on the road was workers commuting to Cambridge.

He said: "Most of the traffic is taking people out of town to work and they are spending their money out of town. If we can create more high tech jobs in Haverhill, it would solve issues on the A1307 to some extent."

Picking up the meeting's three themes of 'high-tech, highways and high street', South Cambridgeshire District councillor John Batchelor said the perception of Haverhill from outside was "growth, growth, growth".

He said: "The traffic is all pushed into Cambridgeshire and there has been nothing from Suffolk towards the road. This has been a big failure."

Mr Hancock said: "I think the A1307 should be dualled all the way to the motorway."

"These schemes take a long time, but if we start work now it could be ready to go in four or five years time when there could be money available."

Leaders' optimism for brighter years to come

RADICAL plans to demolish parts of Haverhill's town centre and development of a high-tech research park were among the ideas put forward at last week's Next Steps for Haverhill meeting.

MP Matthew Hancock organised the forum to discuss how the town's expansion could continue in the face of mounting spending cuts.

Business leaders, councillors, teachers and health workers were among those who gathered at the New Croft football stadium to share their ideas.

After presentations by various council leaders and business representatives, the meeting focused on three themes – high-tech, highways and high street.

Closing the meeting, Mr Hancock said: "You have come up with a clear set of priorities – highway, high-tech and high street."

"I am here to listen, to make sure everyone is talking to each other, and to find out what I can do on a national level push these issues."

Cllr Jeremy Pembroke, chairman of Suffolk County Council, said: "Haverhill is blessed with two extremely good schools with outstanding head teachers, so educationally it has a lot going for it, and I think that is where it starts. I want to build on that."

"I am determined to see what we can do to push this very exciting agenda forward."

Solicitor Paul Cammiss said he had lived in the town for 60 years and was impressed by what he heard at the meeting.

He said: "I love the town, I love the improvements that have been made and I love the sense of optimism I have felt here."

Appeal for more retail space in town centre

"You could knock down Queens Square to make space there."

Nic Rumsey, of Carisbrooke Investments, developer of the Haverhill Business Park and the planned Haverhill Research Park, said: "If you want to keep the High Street you have got to do something radical as regards the Gurtenees site."

"Bits of it are attractive, but if it was in the north it would have been knocked down years ago. It is possible to get buildings de-listed."

Howard Lay, head of Samuel Ward Academy said he seldom saw any of his 1,000 pupils in the town centre.

He said: "I go to Bury or Cambridge and they are all there. We need some radical new thinking about how you re-engineer these sort of shops in Haverhill. It is fundamental to the growth of the town."

Tina Hanks, Hav-

erhill's town centre manager, said the town currently did not have the space to attract some of the bigger store chains.

She told the meeting: "We are reaching a tipping point for attracting them, and we need to tell them the customers are here, but spending their money elsewhere."

Esther Cornell, chairman of Linton Parish Council, said she used to shop in Haverhill 30 years ago "when there was a better range of shops".

She said: "You have more than 22,000 people in this catchment if you include the outlying area, but usage of Haverhill from the villages has decreased greatly over the years."

"They use the part around the cinema and the restaurants because it's well lit, but they don't want to use those little alleyways to the High Street and it's very dark there."

What about the promises made?

Sir Regarding the proposed research park in Haverhill. As a resident of Hanchett End, I have now had the opportunity of looking at the proposed masterplan for the Haverhill Research Park, the subject of which made headlines in this paper (Research park 'will bring jobs', January 27).

I am amazed that the developers have not considered the promises made to the residents of Hanchett End when they originally purchased their bungalows, which are in principle:

■ A buffer zone of 20 metres plus to be planted as woodland, which would separate our rear gardens from any development. (The plan shows it as six metres and less in places);

■ Any such development would also be of low-level construction. (Most of the rear gardens backing onto the site slope upwards, so any high structures would dominate the view). This point has also been recognised by St Edmundsbury Borough Council. (The plan shows residential properties of three storeys, just a few feet from the rear fences).

In your article, the developers also claim, to quote your headlines: "thousands of jobs will be created". The infrastructure for the entire site, excluding the proposed hotel, has only one entrance/exit, without a roundabout onto the A1307, which the thousands of employees and the residents of the proposed 150 or so properties will all use. As any one knows who travels along the A1307 during peak times, this will cause chaos.

The residents of Haverhill have always been led to believe by the council and the developers that this research park would be the "showpiece" to the entrance of Haverhill, but it is looking more like another attempt to build high-density homes, which offer a far higher return on investment, rather than an impressive entrance to the town.

Vulnerable will suffer the most

Sir, At the late night shopping evening last December, the Labour Party set up a stall to give residents an opportunity to come and talk to them about anything of interest, concerns and any issue we could assist them with.

I was shocked to hear from young parents that the On Track provision might be closing. It has recently been confirmed that Sure Start is to close, despite the Conservative-led Government's commitment that they would ensure these projects would remain. They went even further and confirmed how important and necessary these centres were for families with young children.

This decision would affect Cartwheels as well as On Track, which will deprive our children of these early learning services. They are, too, an important a place for parents to learn and share the experience of feeling supported when things are difficult.

These children's centres are service hubs where children under 5 years old and their families can receive seamless, integrated services and information.

These services vary according to centre but may include:

■ integrated early education and childcare – all centres offering early years provision have a minimum half-time qualified teacher (increasing to full-time within 18 months of the centre opening);

■ support for parents – including advice on parenting, local childcare options and access to specialist services for families;

■ child and family health services – ranging from health screening, health visitor services to breast-feeding support;

The Conservative-led Government is replacing Sure Start with something called the Early Intervention Grant. As a consequence of this replacement, they are also scrapping targeted money (ring fencing) for things like Sure Start that will affect On Track, as well as Cartwheels. This also means the Conservative-run Suffolk County Council can spend its money wherever it chooses and this will hit the vulnerable most. I sincerely hope that our Haverhill Conservative-elected Suffolk county councillors are not in support of these savage cutbacks to these services and they will vote accordingly when decisions are made.

Change in the law is ludicrous

Sir, We have been regulars at Meadowlark for the previous five years or so and my children, aged 16 and 13, have grown up with the trip to Kedington to see the procession, and have thoroughly enjoyed the event.

The fact that changes to legislation have now caused the procession to be cancelled is ludicrous, especially when the Prime Minister is calling for a 'big community' (Law change is blow to village's parade – Weekly News, February 3)

If this is the type of community he envisages, then clearly a rethink is desperately needed.

Drinks stolen: Harry Zachariou is offering reward to catch thieves who broke into his bar, stole all the booze and caused damage.

Picture: Duncan Lamont 711833.

Reward in bid to find bar burglars

OWNERS of a bar which had all its drinks and electrical equipment stolen are offering a £200 reward to help catch the culprits.

Harry Zachariou opened Bar Vu in Jubilee Walk, Haverhill, in December 2009, giving the town its first cocktail bar.

The bar opened as normal on Friday, January 28, despite a break-in the night before when all the bottles of alcohol were taken from the bar.

The thieves ripped cushion covers from sofas in the bar and used them to take away their haul.

They also ripped a television set from the wall, as well as taking speakers, an iPod and other equipment from the sound system.

Mr Zachariou, who also runs the Déjà vu café with his wife, Tia, estimates the value of the items taken and the damage caused will run to between £5,000 and £6,000.

He is offering the reward for anyone who can help get back any of the equipment stolen or help see the culprits prosecuted.

He said: "When I saw it I was devastated. I was going away, so I had just stocked up the bar so that they would not run out. The place is really buzzing now, it has become the place to go and there is a really good atmosphere. The people who did this have probably been in there for a drink and cased it out."

He added: "I was determined that we were going to open, so I went to the cash and carry and bought what we needed."

"I have now put iron bars across the window, as well as installing CCTV and burglar alarms so that it won't happen again. The cameras outside point right at us and they picked up torches in here at 3.38am."

"The bar has been going from strength to strength and we will just have to be more vigilant."

"We want these people caught so that this does not happen to someone else who is working hard to set up a new business."

Anyone who has any information about the break-in can call (01440) 707171.

■ Plans to extend the bar and restaurant into an adjoining empty shop have been put forward.

The application to St Edmundsbury Borough Council is for a change of use of 3 Jubilee Walk, from Bar Vu café and wine bar to Sui Generis, as a cafe, restaurant and wine bar with provision for dancing.

It also includes change of use of the first floor of 2 Jubilee Walk from retail to use as a cafe, restaurant and wine bar with provision for dancing.

There is also a revised application for extended opening hours to allow the premises to be open from 7am to 1am on Monday to Thursday, and 7am to 2am on Friday, Saturdays and Sundays forming a Bank Holiday weekend.

Firefighters called to school incident

FIRE crews put out a fire in a school light fitting on Sunday morning.

Two fire engines from Haverhill were called at 9.52am to Samuel Ward Academy in Chalkstone Way, Haverhill, and extinguished the light fitting and checked the area with thermal imaging cameras.

Crews left the scene before 10.30am and an electrician was called to attend.

Sporty gym heroes get in shape, ready to take on Spartans!

STAFF and clients at a gym are in training for their toughest challenge yet – a 5k run with some gruelling obstacles along the way.

Managers Andy Dore and Lynsey Stavrianos, as well as fitness instructor Elizabeth Jenkinson and 13 members at the Feelgood Fitness Gym at Helions Bumpstead Road, Haverhill, will be taking part in the Spartan Race in aid of Help for Heroes.

The course is at Bassingbourn Barracks and is designed to test resilience, strength and stamina.

Obstacles along the way include crawling under barbed wire and through the mud, leaping over fire, swimming through a lake and battling past spear-throwing Spartans.

Liz said: "We think it will be a great challenge for our members and it is for a great charity. Members at the gym who are taking part can get a training programme and we are mixing cardio vascular and resistant weights."

The gym, which has recently been refurbished, also has the latest fitness equipment favoured by celebrities – power plates which vibrate to give a high speed workout.

To join in the Spartan race, visit www.spartanrace.com.

To sponsor Liz visit www.justgiving.com/Elizabeth-Jenkinson, or call the gym on (01440) 760977.

Help find ginger cats

A SPATE of missing ginger cats has been reported to a homing group which is appealing to anyone who has found one to get in touch.

During the past eight weeks, a number of distraught owners have reported to the Haverhill branch of Cats Protection that their ginger pet has gone missing.

The group has made an urgent appeal to residents to phone them on (01440) 730096 if a ginger cat has turned up on their doorstep or they know of any accidents involving a ginger cat.

A spokesman said: "We would also urge people to be vigilant and to keep their cats in after dark. We would also like to remind people to phone the vets and the helpline immediately if their cat goes missing."

Referral order over hoax call

MAKING a hoax call to the fire service resulted in a six-month referral order being made on a 15-year-old boy.

The teenager from Haverhill, who cannot be named for legal reasons, admitted the offence. He used a mobile phone which was later traced to him. He appeared before Bury St Edmunds youth court yesterday for the offence, which was committed in Haverhill last October.

Teen burglar locked up

BURGLAR Stephen Pryce has been locked up for a series of house raids which he confessed to the police in a bid to make a "clean slate".

Pryce, 18, asked for three burglaries and three thefts in Haverhill to be taken into consideration when he admitted burglary and theft charges.

He was sentenced to two years and six months in a young offenders' institute by a judge at Ipswich Crown Court.

Pryce, formerly of Sorrel

BY JOHN GOODE

Walk, Haverhill, was arrested and charged with burglary at a house in Glamis Close, Haverhill, on December 9.

While he was remanded in custody, he was visited by the Suffolk Police Operation Converter team and agreed to go with them to the scenes of his crimes.

Operation Converter works with offenders to encourage them to admit their crimes and be sentenced for all offences at the same time, rather than face being charged with offences where police find evidence at a later date.

This gives the offender credit at sentencing and a clean slate when they are released from prison, and helps victims of crime.

The offences Pryce asked to be considered were all committed in Haverhill. They were: theft, Stirling Drive, September 2009; theft, Sorrel Walk, October 2009; burglary, Sorrel Walk, February 2010; burglary, Burnt House Close, February 2010; theft, Sperling Drive, October 2010; and burglary, The Keep, November 2010.

Det Insp David Giles said: "Pryce committed a number of burglaries and thefts in his home town, even targeting members of his own family.

"Thanks to Operation Converter, Pryce has admitted these offences and will now spend more time locked up.

"Upon his release, he will be given the opportunity to engage with agencies that can further assist him to leave behind a life of crime."

Confessed: Stephen Pryce.

Foodbank's cash boost

SOLICITORS who decided to make donations to charities instead of sending Christmas cards have handed over a cheque for £400 to their local food bank.

Paul Cammis, managing partner, of Adams Harrison solicitors in Haverhill, presented the cash to Ann Merrigan, of Haverhill Foodbank.

He said "We no longer send out corporate Christmas cards and feel it more worthwhile to make donations to local charities instead. This donation is made from our Haverhill office and other charities have been supported from our Saffron Walden and Sawston offices."

Mrs Merrigan said "Every bit of support we get is so much appreciated and £400 is exceptional - this is fantastic."

"This is the second time that we at Adams Harrison has presented a cheque to the Haverhill Foodbank, which we feel is a very worthwhile and local charity worthy of our support."

"All our partners and staff hope that the foodbank will continue to go from strength to strength, and assist local people in time of need."

Jobseekers get a visit from mayor

UNEMPLOYED people who have completed a new jobseekers' course received a visit from a social guest to hand over their certificates.

St Edmundsbury mayor Cllr Ian Houlter met jobseekers in Haverhill who have completed the new employability course for jobless people across Cambridgeshire and Suffolk.

The course has been accredited and is now equal to a GCSE, giving hope to jobseekers who struggle to find work without any qualifications.

Current statistics show that in Suffolk 11.5 per cent of the population is unemployed, a total of 50,830 people claiming out-of-work benefits in the county.

They also reveal that 9.9 per cent of the Suffolk population have no qualifications, a total of 43,700 people.

A total of 26 jobseekers who are currently looking for work have completed a new course in order to improve their chances of finding employment.

The two-week course addresses many of the barriers jobseekers face when looking for work, including effective job searching, interview skills, CV writing, confidence and motivation.

Martin Hickerton, senior operations manager for the Reed in Partnership East of England, which runs the courses, said: "We have worked hard to get the course recognised as a full qualification."

"Our members will now come onto our programme and achieve a qualification, as well as hopefully finding a job."

"I would personally like to thank the mayor for taking the time to recognise the achievements of the individuals completing the course."

"Finding work is hard work in itself and it can be difficult to keep up your motivation. This qualification, along with recognition from the mayor, will be a welcome boost."

This is your opportunity to say how you want Haverhill to be in 20 years time. It might be an issue for the whole town, or relate to a particular part of town or to a theme, such as leisure and environment.

St Edmundsbury Borough Council, and its partners have started to create a new long term vision for Haverhill. When it is finished, Haverhill 2031 will provide a plan for addressing the key issues that the town faces.

What do you think about these issues?

What will future generations think about them?

- Homes and community
- Jobs
- Travel
- Infrastructure and services
- Historic and natural environment
- Crime and safety
- Sustainability and climate change
- Leisure and recreation
- Health
- Education and skills

What will you be doing in 20 years time?

What do you want Haverhill to be like?

What's your VISION?

Five growth areas have been identified, through the town planning process, around the town. They're shown on the map above. It's now time to start shaping how they will work.

We want you to play your part.

Consultation events are being held during February and March to identify the opportunities and constraints for these areas. Details below.

Haverhill Vision 2031 is a new project, guided by you and your community, to create a long-term vision for our town. It considers the town as a whole, not just the new development the town needs for future generations.

Pub brawl man gets suspended jail term

RACIAL abuse outside a pub led to a large-scale fight involving a number of men, a court has heard.

Louis Woods, 23, was arrested after a fight with Polish men outside The Bell pub in High Street, Haverhill, on September 26 last year.

At a hearing last month Woods admitted charges of using racially aggravated abuse and a threat of violence, but magistrates at Bury St Edmunds released him on bail until last Thursday, after asking a probation officer to prepare a pre-sentence report on him.

Woods, of Betony Walk, Haverhill, escaped an immediate prison sentence after magistrates heard that he was co-operating well with the probation service.

They decided to impose a 12-week prison sentence, suspended for 18 months. Woods was also in breach of an earlier suspended sentence imposed last September, and this was extended for an extra four months.

The court heard Woods was arrested when police were called at about 1.15am to deal with a brawl involving a number of men outside the Bell pub.

Magistrates were told that Woods had earlier been a victim of an assault.

Lyndon Davies, in mitigation, said Woods had got involved when he had initially tried to calm the situation and was himself racially abused and attacked.

"Clearly there was severe provocation in this case," he said.

New career: Mark Jephson.

Mark focused on community role

FORMER police inspector Mark Jephson has taken on a new role within a housing group.

He has joined the ranks of Havebury Housing Partnership as its new communities manager, bringing with him more than 30 years' experience of working for communities in Suffolk.

Mr Jephson retired from Suffolk Police earlier this year, having joined the force as a cadet when he was just 16.

Now, following frequent collaboration with the affordable homes provider in his previous role, he has been appointed to the post of communities manager at Havebury.

He said: "In 2002 I was an Inspector in Haverhill and worked closely with Havebury's housing team - together we started the estate inspections and shared information about anti-social behaviour. I also became a member and then chairman of Havebury's Community Investment Focus group, so I've had a close relationship with the partnership for some time.

"While I loved my time working in law enforcement, what I have always really enjoyed is working with people to improve their communities.

"I am very lucky to have had one fabulous career with the police and then to start another with Havebury."

His role will include co-ordinating Havebury's community investment and neighbourhood teams to work more closely together to provide a more streamlined service for tenants.

Philip Sullivan, Havebury's director of operations, said: "Mark has lived and breathed Suffolk life during his time in the police - he thrives on working with communities and he's passionate about making sure improvements are made swiftly and efficiently.

"We are very glad he's come on board with us."

'We will never forget our little baby daughter Lily'

STANDING in front of the mirror, Alison Bruce couldn't tear her eyes from her plump baby bump. First she felt disbelief; then a rush of overwhelming sorrow. At 26 weeks pregnant, she'd just been told her baby had died.

"I remember looking in the mirror and thinking that I looked just like any other pregnant woman but I wasn't," remembers Alison. "I was still walking round looking pregnant, yet my baby was dead... I couldn't bear the thought of bumping into someone and them asking 'When's it due? Have you thought about names?'."

"I knew I'd have to deliver her – they'd given me tablets to start the labour – but there was nothing positive to spur me on. I managed to keep it together during the day but all night I'd lie awake crying. Those 48 hours, waiting to go into hospital, were probably the darkest of all."

Baby Lily, as she was named, was stillborn on November 28, 2003.

In the 26th week of her pregnancy, Alison Bruce was told her baby had died inside her. Here, she and husband Jacen explain why, though they never had the chance to get to know her, they'll never forget their beloved daughter.

Weighing in at a tiny 1lb 1oz, she was, smiles Alison, like a miniature version of her big sister Lana, now 11.

"I had gas and air during the delivery and I was a bit disorientated," she recounts. "But I can still remember the moment they gave her to me, wrapped in a blanket: my first thought was how much she looked like Lana."

"The feelings you have for your baby, that sense of belonging – it was just the same. I had her next to the bed all that night in a little cradle. Even though I knew there was no need, I found myself instinctively reaching out and rocking her..."

Tests showed that Lily had stopped growing at 21 weeks. Until this day, nobody is sure why: it may, explains Alison, 44, have been due to a malfunctioning placenta, or Lily could have contracted a viral infection.

In total, almost 4,000

babies in the UK are stillborn every year. "It's more common than people realise," adds Alison, who lives in Fordham. "It's just that people don't like to talk about it. When I came out of hospital a lady just turned up on the doorstep: it turned out that she'd been through exactly the same thing 30 years earlier."

"Lots of people sent flowers saying 'Sorry for your loss', but only one card mentioned the fact we'd had a baby. And only one person asked if we had any photos. Those two things meant so much to me: I didn't want to act as if we hadn't had a baby; Lily was still our child."

Alison, an author, and her husband Jacen, a musician, have decided to share their story to raise awareness for the Child Bereavement

Charity, a nationwide organisation which, among other things, supports families in the wake of a child's death.

Jacen said: "I didn't have counselling or anything at the time and, looking back, I think it would have been a very good thing if I had. The thing about grief is that you can only bury it for so long – it's bound to come out in the end. I can clearly remember sitting in a car park one day, years later, and suddenly breaking down. It was completely out of the blue."

"It takes time for you to find out what the damage is, and a lot longer to learn how to repair it."

Over the next month Jacen will be raising funds for Child Bereavement by holding a series of special gigs in local shopping centres. On the

Singing out

Jacen is staging three special gigs throughout February to raise cash for the Child Bereavement Charity. Performing live, with daughter Lana joining him on vocals, he will be appearing at Cambridge's Grafton shopping centre from 11am on Saturday, February 13 and 20 and at Peterborough's Queensgate Centre from 9am on Saturday, February 26. Donations will be collected. To find out more about Jacen and his music, visit www.jacenbruce.com we believe to be a very important cause," he adds. "And it would be great if something good, something positive, could come out of it all."

When Alison, a crime writer best known for her top-selling thriller Cambridge Blue, fell pregnant with Lana, the couple's first child, she admits being apprehensive. "I knew I wanted a baby, but I didn't know how I'd react when it actually arrived," she remembers. "Because of that I left it really late to tell everyone I was pregnant, I must have been about five months before I said anything... I'd literally never picked up a baby before."

"Some friends have got a little girl who's about six weeks older than Lana. I remember them coming round with the baby and saying to me 'Have a hold' and me saying 'No, it's okay', then saying 'It's all right - hold the baby!' and me saying 'No, I don't want to hold the baby'... they were so worried they phoned up afterwards to see if I was all right."

"But the moment Lana was born I remember thinking 'Yes! We've got to do this again': it was just magic the instant she arrived. So the second time round I got excited right from the beginning, told people, bought all the baby magazines. I felt like I'd missed out on some of that anticipation first time round, so I really wanted to enjoy it."

But, though her first pregnancy had been smooth sailing, Alison says her second was blighted by illness and exhaustion. "First I got a flu type bug and then it was one infection after the other: chest infections, an ear infection... and I was absolutely exhausted. Lana was at pre-school which is only just up the road from our house. I'd take her there, come home, sit down and spend the next two hours trying to summon the energy to get out of the chair. But I was getting bigger all the time; it didn't occur to me at any point there might be something wrong with the pregnancy."

Then, around 26 weeks, Alison woke one morning to find her baby bump feeling oddly deflated; as the hours went by, she realised she couldn't feel the baby moving. Visiting the midwife, no heartbeat could be found; a doctor was called, but still no beat. Referred to Addenbrooke's for an emergency scan, Alison's worst fears were confirmed: the baby had died.

"Half of my brain knew already, the other half didn't want to believe it. I didn't see the scan monitor because of the angle I was at, but Jacen saw her. He says she was lying there with her little arms outstretched."

Telling Lana, then only four, that her baby sister had died was a very emotional task. But the couple say they decided from the outset to be open and honest about what had happened: when Lily was buried, in the village churchyard, both Lana and Natalie, Jacen's older daughter from a previous relationship, were there.

Alison, who did opt to have bereavement counselling, admits that coping with the loss was an enormous challenge. "I look back and think we were so traumatised ourselves that we weren't really equipped to help Lana through it. She was so excited about having a little brother or sister, so it was hard having to tell her."

"When I got pregnant again, with her little brother Dean, she asked if the baby was going to be all right and we had to be honest and say 'We hope so, but we can't promise'. I didn't let myself get excited until Dean was here. I had one panic and went to Addenbrooke's saying 'I can't feel anything', but it was a textbook pregnancy."

Both Alison and Jacen agree the services offered by the Child Bereavement Charity would have been of enormous help both to them and Lana: providing emotional support, information and practical advice, the organisation reaches out to tens of thousands of families every year.

With Lana and Dean, now five, happy, healthy and the best of friends, Alison says their family is now complete. But she says none of them will ever forget Lily. "She'll always be our baby," she adds. "Nothing will ever change that."

Carpet revival under way

CARPETS are enjoying a revival – and it's giving us the perfect excuse to have fun with the floor again.

"We're not moving house as much, therefore instead of sanding floorboards and adding rugs that we can take with us, we're investing in permanence like carpet," says interior designer Andrea Maflin.

"And as floors are probably the first thing you notice when you enter a home, it's a great space to express your personality. We're all familiar with feature walls but why not feature floors?"

But don't panic, there's no need to wave goodbye to those polished wooden floors that have ruled the home roost for so long.

You can still follow the craze for carpet by taking a 'mix and match' approach. Select an area which you 'zone' or define with carpet – a dining area or seating area which will have the benefit of giving you islands of luxury.

If you feel floored by the selection of carpets and natural floorings available, here's some advice.

PATTERN POWER

Using pattern underfoot is a clever way to bring impact to a room, and it can be easily complemented by subtle, plain furnishings.

"Contrary to popular belief, pattern can actually make a room look bigger as the eye perceives more content," says Kelly Butler.

"Do remember that light colours for floors as on walls will make a room seem larger, while dark colours will make it seem more cosy and intimate."

STEP INTO STRIPES

These are emerging as the most popular pattern for the floor, according to Roger Oates, whose company specialises in runners for stairs and halls.

"Stripes are timeless but they can have a contemporary edge depending on the colour combinations used.

"You can be bold with widths and colours, to create drama, or use fine lines for a more classic or subtle effect. Used on stairs they can look stunning set against old oak or even stone."

COLOUR UP

"People often think about using colour for Defining a room: Carpet colour sets tone.

walls and accessories, but using a bright coloured carpet can make such a bold style statement and instantly enliven a dull room," says George Clarke.

"Make it dramatic by contrasting with neutral walls and pick out the colour in accessories."

NEAT AND NEUTRAL

Neutral, pared-back shades are still the most popular choice for rooms, as they allow versatility in a room scheme. Their plain good looks allow texture to be the hero, with boucle, herringbone, sculpted designs or even shag pile, that Seventies favourite, reprising its popularity.

If you want to be on trend, be aware that those traditional gold and beige tones are giving way this year to greys, taupes and stone shades.

LAY DOWN THE LAW

"Wool floorcovering is ideal for living rooms, as it's soft underfoot and has durability and springiness," advises Mike Richardson, at Kersaint Cobb.

Take a tip from interior designers: Get a sample of carpet that you can take home and view in different lights before you make a final choice.

Hospice's appeal to recruit new friends

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A HOSPICE is looking for more people to join its Friends groups.

St Nicholas Hospice Care wants to hear from anyone interested in telling others about the hospice's work and its fundraising events.

The hospice, which cares for patients from Haverhill, is looking for like-minded people to join and form Friends groups across West Suffolk.

Once up and running, the groups will be encouraged to organise one-off and regular fundraising events in aid of the charity, such as coffee mornings, quiz nights, concerts, race nights, plant sales or supper clubs.

Community fundraisers Ian Norris and Sue Long will be on hand to help any Friends.

Ms Long said: "Friends groups are another way of spreading the word and generating support for the hospice."

"Friends don't have to organise big events – they could just hold regular get-togethers. Whatever they choose to do, Ian and I will be there to support them every step of the way. We have the tools to help with advertising and can help with publicity materials, too."

Mr Norris said he was keen to see more Friends groups formed, as they provided a local focus of support for the hospice.

He said: "Not only that, but Lending a hand: hospice community fundraisers Ian Norris and Sue Long have promised to help and new Friends group with fundraising for the charity.

helping the hospice in this way is very fulfilling.

"Many of our existing Friends thoroughly enjoy utilising their skills for the benefit of the community."

Groups already exist in Newmarket, Thetford and Rickinghall, but new members are wanted.

A group is currently being formed in Mildenhall and the hospice hopes Haverhill, Lavenham, Sudbury and Brandon will soon have their own groups.

For more information, or to register your interest in becoming a Friend, contact partnerships fundraising manager, Kevin Clements, on (01284) 715595 or email kevin.clements@stnh.org.uk

Golfers chip in with cash for good cause

MORE than £3,000 has been handed over to a hospice from the proceeds of a charity golf tournament and a super-market trolley contest.

Haverhill and District Rotary Club presented a cheque for £3,207 to St Nicholas Hospice. The bulk of the money donated was part of the proceeds from last year's Rotary Golf Classic, with the remainder raised at a 'guess the value of the trolley' contest at Sainsbury's on New Year's Eve.

Ian Norris, accepting the donation on behalf of the hospice, gave a brief outline of the work being done by the hospice and thanked Haverhill Rotary Club, and the wider community, for their continued support, particularly in the current difficult financial times.

This year's Rotary Gold Classic will take place at Haverhill Golf Club on Saturday, June 25. Further details can be found on the Rotary website, www.haverhillrotaryuk.org.uk

Hunt for owner of ginger tom

A LARGE ginger cat is making himself comfortable at an animal sanctuary – but his carer wants to reunite him with his owners. The ginger tabby with “very yellow” eyes is around 4 to 5-years-old. He is at the Jaybeth Animal Sanctuary at Barnardiston, after being found in Haverhill.

Sanctuary owner Carol Outhwaite said: “He is not micro-chipped, but has obviously been very well cared for and I am sure someone, somewhere must be missing him.

“A couple in Rochall Close, Haverhill, found him when he kept trying to get into their house. He is a real character and I am sure someone will recognise the description.”

Anyone who recognises the description of the cat can contact Carol on 07505 499 184.

GRASS caught fire in a village. Emergency services were called to Arms Lane in Kedington, near Haverhill, shortly before 4.50pm on Wednesday, February 2.

Bands at the double as members strike a chord

TWO community brass bands will be joining forces for a concert on Sunday, February 20.

Members of the Haverhill Youth and Community Band will tune up alongside those from Hadstock Band at Haverhill Arts Centre, starting at 7.30pm.

Haverhill Youth and Community Band was formed in 2002, as a training wing of Haverhill Silver Band and has been conducted by local school teacher, Diane Pannell, for the past six years.

It consists of around 25 young players aged under 18 and 10 adults who are either hobbyists or helpers.

There has been a brass band based in the nearby village of Hadstock for more than 100 years and it has played a large part in village life.

Its current musical director is Lisa Jardine-Wright, who is an astrophysicist at the Cavendish Laboratory, Cambridge.

Over recent years, the band has built up a reputation in the area as a concert band and has also achieved much in the sphere of East Anglian Brass Festivals.

Each band will play separately in this concert and join together in a grand finale.

Tickets for the concert are £5.50, £4 concessions, available from the box office on (01440) 714140.

Batons at the ready: Diane Pannell and Lisa Jardine-Wright prepare for next weekend's united concert.

Firefighters' union set for rally as cuts loom

FIREFIGHTERS from across East Anglia will take to the streets on Saturday to protest against what they view as plans to “recklessly slash front-line emergency services”.

The Fire Brigades Union Suffolk (FBU) has launched its campaign to oppose planned cuts, which include axing four posts at Haverhill to provide only on-call cover at weekends.

Firefighters from Suffolk – as well as Cambridgeshire, Essex, Hertfordshire, Bedfordshire and Norfolk – will attend the rally in Ipswich.

The union says this has the potential to become the worst year for Suffolk Fire and Rescue Service (SFRS) in its history. It has argued it is already the cheapest brigade in the UK and of the 46 services in England, Suffolk is ranked 41st in terms of how quickly it responds to a dwelling fire.

A statement from the FBU said: “The roads are busier, there are more houses, but Suffolk County Council wants to end the year with a worse service to the public since the days of horse-drawn fire appliances and hand-operated pumps.

“Put simply, some people, because of budget cuts, will have to wait longer for a fire engine. Residents and visitors of Suffolk will pay for these changes with their lives.”

Andy Message, acting brigade secretary and a Haverhill firefighter, said: “Never before have cuts like these been proposed to the people of Suffolk. But they do not have to happen.

“The Integrated Risk Management Plan

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

is the public's chance to have their say. We strongly call upon council tax payers, parish and town councils and businesses to respond to the document and make it clear public safety is important to them.

“SFRS does not belong to the chief fire officer, the chief executive or even the county councillors. It belongs to the people of Suffolk, who look after the service until it is time to hand it on to the next generation.

“We should all ensure our children and grandchildren do not have a worsened service when we do.”

The rally will gather outside the county council's headquarters at Endeavour House from 11am.

Andy Fry, chief fire officer, said: “We have been careful to assess the risks associated with each of the proposals and believe that they strike a sensible balance between our vital role in protecting the public and meeting the financial challenge we face.

“It is, however, essential that we consult people across Suffolk, so that they fully understand our proposals and are given an opportunity to comment on them.”

Suffolk County Council has launched a public consultation period on its plans which runs until May 5.

The full consultation document and questionnaire can be found at www.suffolk.gov.uk/IRMP or by request at any of Suffolk's libraries.

There's an easier way to help someone switch to digital TV. Get them to call the Help Scheme.

Switching someone to digital can be relatively straightforward. But it can involve coming back to re-tune twice and in some cases replacing the aerial. If you really want to help someone switch, the best way may be to recommend the Switchover Help Scheme.

We can provide anyone aged 75 and over or eligible disabled with:

- Easy-to-use equipment
- An approved installer to supply and install the equipment for them
- A check on their TV aerial and replacement if necessary, where we can
- A 12 month aftercare service including a free helpline

This service is available for just £40 all-inclusive or free if they're eligible and on certain income-related benefits.

Inspired speech from forgetful 'bestof' guru

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A TRIP to Haverhill took precedence over attending the National Television awards for leading entrepreneur Nigel Botterill.

The founder of the 'bestof' franchise attended a meeting of the bestofhaverhill group, where 80 guests learned some of the secrets of his success.

The '18 Secrets' presentation was described as a "highly energetic and engaging" talk from the founder and chief executive of a business empire which includes some of the fastest-growing businesses in the UK.

Mr Botterill talked the audience through the "Botty Rules" for success, which included taking responsibility as a business owner. It was the owners who were responsible for the success or failure of their businesses, not the Government, the economic climate, the growth in online sales or the weather.

The Nigel Botterill Entrepreneur's Circle was launched in 2009 and since then the businessman has visited many towns across the UK and published his first book, The Botty Rules: Success Secrets for Business in the 21st Century.

He told his audience in Haverhill that he and his wife had been given tickets many months ago to attend the National Television Awards. He had forgotten to put the date in his diary and a few weeks ago when his wife spoke about her excitement at attending the awards, Mr Botterill realised he had already committed to visit Haverhill.

Elaine Carr, owner of thebestofhaverhill said: "This was a great event."

"The Haverhill Arts Centre provided a wonderful venue and the food prepared by the Catering students from Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College and was fantastic."

"Nigel is a real inspiration. I think part of his appeal is that he is so down to earth and the advice he gives is very practical, business owners can go away and implement what he says into their business without a huge cost or demand on their time."

"I feel our event showcased Haverhill at its best - making use of local resources and involving our young people. I think the local business community need to play an active role in ensuring that the change and improvement continues."

"Against the doom and gloom of the economic climate, Haverhill has the potential to take full advantage of some amazing opportunities and to be the true rising star in Suffolk - we simply need to work together to make it a reality."

£2m fund for new MS research trials

SCIENTISTS in Cambridge are to start trials on a drug which could undo damage caused by multiple sclerosis (MS).

Researchers at the MS Society's Cambridge Centre for Myelin Repair will start the second stage of ground-breaking research in April, thanks to £2 million funding from the society.

In clinical trials on rats with an MS-like condition, the drug has been shown to repair damage to myelin, a fatty tissue surrounding nerves that become eroded by the neurological condition.

Led by Prof Robin Franklin at the Cambridge University laboratory, scientists will test potential treatment for its effectiveness and dosage levels on humans.

The team will also examine safety aspects of the potential treatments and build on recent advances in myelin repair research, making it possible to identify more potential MS treatments in the future.

There are currently no treatments to reverse the damage to myelin in MS, which affects about 100,000 people in the UK.

Prof Franklin said: "Regenerative therapies are the missing link in MS treatment and I am immensely grateful to the MS Society for their continuing support as we work towards this goal."

Simon Gillespie, chief executive of the MS Society, said: "We've been consistently impressed with the world class work of the Cambridge Centre for Myelin Repair and we're delighted that the generosity of our supporters enables us to continue funding this outstanding research centre."

Stephen stands up for night of silliness

COMIC and actor Stephen K Amos sets out to prove that laughter is the best medicine in his latest stand-up tour, which takes him past Cambridge tomorrow night.

A regular performer at The Comedy Store, London, Amos is also a firm Edinburgh Fringe favourite, where he has performed each year since 2003 to great acclaim. Last year saw him busy filming his own BBC2 comedy series, The Stephen K Amos Show, and now he's preparing to charm audiences across the country live on stage.

Amos grew up in London, where his Nigerian parents settled in the 1960s. Amos often channels his mother on stage who, the comedian explains, dares to say the things he wouldn't. Still, Amos rarely seems shy of speaking out, and in 2006 he talked publicly about being gay for the first time during his All of Me gig.

BY JENNIFER SHELTON

As well as shining a light on serious issues such as sexuality and race, Amos's performances are just as much about light-hearted silliness. Expect an uplifting evening of easy riffing and gentle mockery as this charismatic comedy favourite delivers plenty of feel-good crowd-pleasers.

■ Stephen K Amos, Cambridge Corn Exchange, tomorrow at 8pm. Tickets are £18.50. Contact (01223) 357851 / www.cornex.co.uk

FESTIVAL FAVOURITE:
Stephen K Amos comes to the Corn Exchange tomorrow night.

Dreams without logic...

HOT on the heels of TRAPPED and Grim(m) Desires, Maresa von Stockert's Tilted Productions returns to The Junction in Cambridge with a new performance inspired by the world of sleep and dreams.

Escape everyday life and explore a world without logic, where the strange seems oddly familiar and imaginations reigns.

Maresa von Stockert has collaborated with renowned SFX artist John Schoonraad (creator of special effects for films including Saving Private Ryan and Gladiator) whose delicately sculpted masks and prosthetics are brought to life by dancers and become an integral part of the piece's physical poetry.

Evoking vivid imagery from the beautifully macabre to the violently sensual, Masquerade invites you to dive into a dreamlike world that gives free rein to the choreographer's imagination.

It takes to the stage on Tuesday at 8pm, tickets cost £12 (£6 cons). Contact (01223) 511511 / www.junction.co.uk

The big film

certificate 15 115m

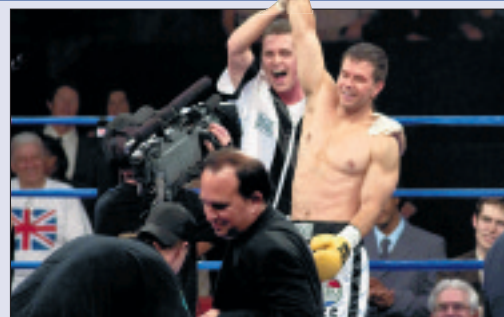

NOMINATED for seven Oscars, including three nods for its supporting cast, The Fighter is an incredible story of triumph against adversity in and out of the boxing ring.

The brutal and physically demanding sport has frequently been a magnet for plaudits.

In 1977, Rocky pummelled the opposition at the Oscars, winning Best Picture and Best Director, and four years later, Raging Bull landed Robert De Niro an Academy Award as Best Actor for his portrayal of real-life former middleweight champion Jake LaMotta.

More recently, Denzel Washington entered the Academy Awards ring with his powerful story of wrongly imprisoned boxer Rubin "Hurricane" Carter and director Clint Eastwood delivered a knockout blow with Million Dollar Baby, earning Hilary Swank her second Oscar.

The Fighter provides all the usual emotional jabs and cuts as its working class hero defies the odds for one shot at glory. Tensions between the pugilist and his family threaten to derail his championship bid, culminating in the obligatory final flurry to coax the audience to its feet.

Micky (Mark Wahlberg) is a talented boxer but he has lived in the shadow of his half brother Dicky (Christian Bale), who famously knocked down Sugar Ray Leonard then descended into drugs and crime.

Trained by Dicky and managed by his monstrous mother, Alice (Melissa Leo), Micky accepts lacklustre fights for scant rewards until he is persuaded to cut himself loose from his loved ones and reach for his dreams.

New girlfriend Charlene (Amy Adams), encourages Micky, incurring the wrath of the Ward clan, who resent outsiders interfering in family business.

Sure enough, Micky tastes victory and as his confidence grows, he faces the possibility of a shot at the world title.

The Fighter is well crafted by director David O Russell, juxtaposing Micky's struggle for self-belief and self-respect with his unwavering love for his selfish and self-destructive family.

Mini SD is diesel delight

More powerful, frugal

COMING just months after the launch of the Mini Countryman and the new Mini Family, Mini has announced that the Mini Cooper SD will be the most powerful diesel variant in the Mini line-up.

The new 2.0-litre/143hp available in all Mini body types – Hatch, Convertible, Clubman and Countryman – will deliver more power, frugal fuel consumption and lower CO2 emissions.

Not only will it be the most performance-oriented diesel Mini, the Mini Cooper SD will also feature the largest displacement power unit ever to grace the engine compartment of a Mini model in the marque's 52-year history.

The 2.0-litre four-cylinder power unit follows the design philosophy of the familiar 1.6-litre engine but produces 143hp at 4,000rpm, almost 28 per cent more than the Cooper D and nearly 60 per cent above that of the One D.

Unsurprisingly its power, allied to a mighty torque figure of 305Nm (225lb ft) from 1,750 to 2,700rpm, the highest torque value of any

Mini engine, even the engines within the John Cooper Works family, endows the Cooper SD with vivid performance: in the case of the Hatch a top speed of 134mph and a 0-62mph acceleration time of 8.1 seconds.

The new Mini SD hatch is priced at £18,750, with the top-spec Countryman ALL4 costing £23,190.

Also launching in the UK in March is a new Special Edition Mini Clubman, the Mini Clubman Hampton and a new Special Edition Hatch, the Mini Pimlico. A new Sports Pack option will add spice to the Hatch and Convertible ranges.

Go to www.mini.co.uk for full details.

Hyundai upgrades i10 range

HYUNDAI has comprehensively updated its award-winning i10 city car range.

The range-wide update – which goes on sale March 1 – marks the arrival of Hyundai's first sub-100g/km Blue model, along with specification and design upgrades for the rest of the line-up.

Chief among the changes are enhancements to the i10's design – both in the cabin and on the exterior of the car. These key design changes are in keeping with the brand's bold and progressing design language, bringing a clear family resemblance between the new i10 and other recently launched Hyundais, including the sleek ix35 and ix20.

A new and improved range of Euro V-compliant engines blends clean performance with excellent fuel economy and ultra-low emissions. The latest i10 introduces the all-new 1.0-litre 'Kappa' engine, which replaces the old 1.1-litre 'Epsilon' unit. This cutting-edge three-cylinder engine achieves a remarkable 67.3mpg on the combined cycle: the sort of cheap-to-run credentials that will resonate with customers as the cost of motoring continues to rise. The popular 1.25-litre 'Kappa' engine has also been improved giving 13 per cent more power (85bhp), 9.2 per cent less CO2 (108g/km) and 8.7 per cent better fuel consumption (61.4mpg) than the outgoing 1.25-litre 'Kappa' engine.

To make the most of the efficient new 1.0-litre engine, Hyundai has introduced an all-new model – the i10 Blue. This special 'eco' edition of the i10 emits an astonishingly low 99g/km CO2, so it gains exemption from VED and the London Congestion Charge. It is currently the only sub-£10k five-seater car on the market to achieve this, and the first of a family of Blue models that will underscore Hyundai's commitment to environmental technology.

REVISED: i10 is now more efficient.

The revised range consists of four trim grades – Blue, Classic, Active and Style – all of which offer exceptional value for money. Equipment specification across the i10 range remains impressive, with usually optional features such as air conditioning and the addition of an iPod plug-in now standard fittings on all new i10s. As part of a class-leading equipment list, customers will also find four airbags, a six-speaker stereo, electric windows and central locking all as standard on all models. Prices start at £8,195 for the entry-level Classic model.

All new i10s come with Hyundai's world-beating Five Year Triple Care package for total peace of mind. This package includes five-year unlimited mileage warranty, five years' roadside assistance and five years of vehicle health checks.

For further information phone Marshall Hyundai on 0844 2435650.

THE HYUNDAI i10: Sub-100g/km Blue is the first in a number of Blue models on the way.

Volkswagen's latest Jetta priced from £16,960

PRICES for the new Jetta have been announced with the entry-level S 1.4-litre TSI 120bhp model starting at a highly competitive £16,960. The top-spec Jetta, the 2.0-litre TDI with DSG, is priced at £22,320. Representing strong value for money, all new Jettas are fitted with air conditioning, an MP3 compatible CD stereo, six airbags, ABS, Electronic Stabilisation Programme (ESP), an alarm and folding rear seats.

Compared to the car it replaces, the new Jetta is 9mm longer at 4,644mm with a wheelbase increase of 70mm to 2,648mm. This allows the rear legroom to increase by 67mm. The changes to the Jetta extend beyond the stretched wheelbase. With an elegant new look both inside and out, the Jetta's panels are not shared with any other Volkswagen.

Powering the Jetta is a range of efficient and refined TSI petrol and TDI diesel engines. Two petrol engines are offered – joining the 1.4-litre TSI 120bhp entry-level engine is a range-topping twincharged 1.4-litre TSI unit developing 156bhp.

The diesel range starts with a highly efficient 1.6-litre TDI engine developing 103bhp. Equipped with BlueMotion Technology features including Start/Stop and battery regeneration as standard, it's capable of achieving 67.3mpg on the combined cycle while emitting just 109g/km of CO2. A 2.0-litre TDI engine developing 140 PS is also available. Still frugal, it returns 58.9mpg combined and has a carbon dioxide emissions figure of 126 g/km.

The 1.6-litre TDI and the 1.4-litre TSI 156bhp unit can be specified with the option of a seven-speed DSG gearbox. The 2.0-litre TDI is available with a six-speed DSG transmission.

The Jetta is available to order now, with deliveries due in May.

For more details contact Vindis Volkswagen on (01223) 424472 or visit www.volkswagen.co.uk.

THE NEW VOLKSWAGEN JETTA: Longer than the model it replaces.

Astra ES here in time for new spring plate

THE VAUXHALL ASTRA ES: Sub-100g/km Blue is a first.

A NEW model joins Vauxhall's Astra range this week, which squarely targets similarly priced five-door hatch rivals from Ford and VW by offering levels of standard kit and trim not usually seen outside the options list.

Starting at just £18,110 for the 138bhp 1.4-litre Turbo model, the ES Tech comes as standard with a CD500 Satnav system (including CD player, MP3, USB, iPod control, seven speakers and aux-in socket), Bluetooth, a DAB radio, 17-inch alloy wheels and aircon. This complements the already generous level of standard kit found in most Astra models, such as curtain airbags, ESP, daytime running lights, cruise control and steering wheel-mounted audio controls.

For diesel buyers, the Astra ES Tech is available with the 122bhp 1.7 CDTi engine, and with sub-120g/km emissions this version is one of Vauxhall's growing range of ecoFLEX models. At £19,530, the ES Tech ecoFLEX gains key items of standard kit over Ford's new challenger including satnav and cruise control, as well as combined fuel consumption of 62.8mpg.

Motorists hit by insurance hikes

MOTORISTS have been hit with steep rises in car insurance premiums after the average policy went up by £210 last year, the AA said.

The increases pushed the average fully comprehensive policy up by a third to £843, according to the AA's British Insurance Premium Index.

The findings also showed prices went up by an extra £51, or 6.4 per cent, in the last quarter of 2010 alone.

According to the AA, the increase was less than the previous quarter but added to the cost of driving ahead of fuel duty and VAT increases in January as well as the 1 per cent increase in Insurance Premium Tax.

Young drivers were hit hardest with fully comprehensive premiums for 17- to 22-year-olds rising by more than 58 per cent over the year to £2,251.

Third party, fire and theft policies, which are most commonly bought by young drivers, also rose by more than a quarter in the last three months with the average price for the year reaching £1,390 – a rise of more than 70 per cent.

Simon Douglas, director of AA Insurance, said: "There has been no let-up in premium increases as insurers struggle against losses from 2009, when for every £100 taken in premiums, £123 was being paid out in claims.

"This has led to the biggest annual premium increases we have seen since the AA Index began in 1994."

He added last year's rises in premiums had triggered a House of Commons Transport Committee inquiry into the car insurance market.

Toyota Verso safety boost

THE motor industry has made huge advances in safety in the past few years, but it's Toyota that's built the safest MPV, according to Euro-NCAP's test results for 2010.

Your CV

When you send your CV off to a potential employer, remember that you won't be the only one. Hundreds of other people could be applying for the job as well.

So what are you going to do to make you stand out from the crowd? Why should an employer take a chance on you instead of someone else?

Your CV is your first real chance to sell yourself to a potential employer. Most employers will scan through a CV in about 30 seconds so you need to grab their attention from the start - and make them want to invite you for an interview.

There are five main areas to consider when writing your CV:

- Make sure your CV looks the part. Your CV should look clean and tidy - don't scrawl it out on a piece of A4 paper. If you haven't got access to a PC or printer, ask a friend or use your local library. Use a good quality paper and steer clear of fancy borders and front covers.

- Watch out for silly spelling and grammar mistakes. They make you look lazy and show employers that you don't really care. It's not difficult to do a spell check on your PC and if you're really stuck then don't just guess, reach for a dictionary. Get a friend to read through your CV for you - a second opinion is always useful.

- Make sure your CV is well organised. When you list your previous jobs, make sure the dates are correct and try not to leave any gaps. If you took time out to go travelling then say so - employers won't mark you down just because you've tried something new.

- Don't waffle. Remember that employers don't have time to read every word of your CV. Long paragraphs and sentences put people off, so try bullet-points to break up text. Make sure your CV is no longer than two pages long - employers don't want your life history, they just want to see that you've got what it takes to do the job.

- Don't list any failures. Employers have enough trouble finding someone who is right for the job - they don't need help finding reasons not to employ you. If you have to include a mistake from your past, make sure you show the employer that you learnt something from the experience.

Keep it simple

Personal details

Start off with your full name, address, date of birth, home and mobile phone numbers, email address and nationality. If you are offered an interview, the employer will want to get hold of you so give him as many options as possible.

Summary/professional profile

This is the No1 area for selling yourself. Set out your main skills and personal qualities but keep it interesting and tight - one paragraph should do to cover everything.

Education and qualifications

List your qualifications and education history, with the most recent first. You don't need to list the grades for each exam you have passed unless they were exceptional results - simply listing the number and type of exams you've passed is fine. Also, list any relevant professional organisations you belong to and training courses you have been on.

Work experience

Start with your most recent position and work backwards, giving addresses along with start and finish dates. Set out your main responsibilities, duties and most importantly achievements, along with any skills you picked up or improvements you made while you were there. This is a really important section in your CV so make it count - but don't waffle.

If you have not had a full-time job before, detail any part-time jobs you may have held or any placement you have been on.

Other skills

Set out any computer skills you may have and the software you are most familiar with. Can you type, do shorthand or speak a foreign language fluently? If you have a driving licence, let the employer know. If it's clean, tell them.

Interests & hobbies

Briefly list what you get up to in your spare time. Put down any positions you hold in clubs or associations, along with any responsibilities and achievements.

References

Make sure you have at least two people (including one from your previous or current job) who will tell an employer what a thoroughly nice person you are and what a potential asset to the company you would be.

If you want to list them now make sure you include their name, job title, postal & e-mail address and contact phone numbers. Alternatively, just put "Available on request" so the employer knows to follow up references at a later date.

Add a covering letter

The main aim of a covering letter is to encourage an employer to give you a chance. You want them to read your CV, so sell it to them. You should always enclose a covering letter when applying for a job - most employers won't consider you unless you do.

A covering letter should let the employer know why you are interested in the job and why you think you can do it.

The hints and tips below should point you in the right direction:

- Keep it simple. A covering letter should be short and to the point - no more than six paragraphs.
- Mention the job. If you are replying to an advert, mention what the job is and where you saw it. The company may be advertising for other positions and it may not be clear which job you are applying for.
- Sell yourself. Explain why you are the perfect candidate for the job. Show off your strengths and experience. Refer to your CV - if it goes missing then at least an employer will know that you've sent it.
- Check it for mistakes. A silly spelling mistake in a covering letter is likely to cost you your chance of getting an interview. Also, make sure it is addressed to the right person in the right department.

A covering letter can be just as important as a CV in getting you an interview. It's your first point of contact with your potential employer - so make it count.

GREENE KING IPA EASTERN COUNTIES LEAGUE

Division One: Haverhill 12 Stowmarket 33, Southwold 27 Cantabrigian 5, Woodbridge 3 Ely 15.

West Wrating 5 Willingham Wolves 4

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-14B TWO goals in a dramatic final minute helped West Wrating bounce back from a 3-1 deficit to pick up three vital points. Harry Wilson opened the scoring for the hosts but a three-goal 15-minute purple patch brought a stunning response in which Earle Lambert hit the woodwork and Rory Jebb and Mark Coulson were both denied by the Willingham keeper. Jebb and Lambert made it 3-3 in the early stages of the second half before a superb long-range drive put Willingham back in front.

However, Rory Jebb equalised from distance 30 seconds from time, and straight from the restart, the ball was worked to Coulson whose shot hit the post but landed at the feet of the in-rushing Lambert who blasted in.

Cherry Hinton Lions 0 Haverhill Rovers 7

Canbridge and District Colts League, under-13A ROVERS went to town in the second half when they had the strong, blustery wind at their backs.

They did all the hard work in the first half when, with the conditions against them, they pinned Lions into their own half with their passing game, creating several chances and having one effort cleared off the line before winger Billy Bush put them ahead.

After the break they remained camped in the Lions half, with Jack Trowbridge, Leon Bailey and Will Bailey putting them in control before Chidera Nkem Paul cracked a hat-trick.

Waterbeach 0 Haverhill Rov 2

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-12C COREY Slater and Billy Campbell struck in the first half, when they had the wind at their backs, to give Rovers a useful win. With the advantage of the conditions, Rovers battered the Waterbeach defence, creating several chances with Scott Jessop and Keiren Grace both hitting the post before the goals arrived.

After the turn-around, Rovers were forced on the defensive – man of the match Grace leading the resistance – although Slater also hit the post.

Hundon Hawks 2 Chatteris Town 2

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-12D DIVISIONAL leaders Chatteris would not lie down at Hundon in the top-of-the-table showdown, and their pressure paid off with a late equaliser.

With their set-plays causing problems all game, Chatteris took the lead with a long-range effort but a superb through ball from Branham Ince led to Anders Pilley nutmegging the keeper to equalise.

Hundon stepped up the pressure in the second half with Ince scoring a superb solo goal to take his side top – albeit briefly as the Chatteris long-play bombardment finally brought an equaliser.

Kedington 4 Burwell Tigers 0

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-13C ELLIS Wiffen slammed a hat-trick as Kedington tamed the Tigers in the first half.

Cameron Larkin powered a shot into the top of the net to give them an early lead before crisp passing moves gave Wiffen his first two goals.

And although Burwell came out stronger in the second half, forcing a good save from Jack Davis, Kedington wrapped up the game soon after when Wiffen tucked away Jason Moore's controlled pass.

Castle Camps 1 St Ives Rangers 0

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-12A CASTLE Camps were twice saved by the woodwork before they scored the only goal to seal the points.

St Ives hit the post with a free kick in the last minute of the first half and then hit the bar after a corner in the second.

However, the decisive goal arrived five minutes from time when Ellem rounded of a good move.

West Wrating 2 Ramsey 2 denied by a controversial late penalty. With the back four – and man-of-the-match keeper Jack Child, who produced two superb saves – recovering from the early setback, Wrating were able to build and they had four good chances before Cameron Biggs crashed in the equaliser from 25 yards.

Tom Pinker was foiled by a brilliant save from the Ramsey keeper before Scott Hayes stole in at the back post to tuck the ball away and give the home side a 2-1 lead. However, just as Wrating looked to have survived Ramsey's aerial assault, a dubious penalty award left them with just one point.

Needingworth 2 Thurlow 3

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-14C TOMMY Bates struck a last-gasp winner to earn Thurlow maximum points against a revitalised side who had taken maximum points from the teams in second and third places in their last two games. The home side went 2-0 up – the first goal a fortunate affair after a fine save from keeper Kyle Easton-Mulcare came back off the post straight to a player following up. However, Tayler Warner rifled home his first Thurlow goal before the break and Callum Williamson pounced after Mason Iron's shot hit the bar to make it 2-2. And the comeback was completed when Bates lofted the ball into the net in the final minute.

■ Thurlow are looking for goalkeepers for their under-sevens (school Year 2) and under-eights (school Year 3) mini-football teams to play in the Cambs Mini League. Anyone interested should contact 07809 550420.

Wardley the decider in Rovers cruise

Haverhill Rovers 1 Wivenhoe Town 0
Ridgeons League, Premier Division

STUART Wardley scored the only goal of the game to get Haverhill back to winning ways on Saturday.

After their narrow defeat by Leiston in midweek, Rovers boss Peter Betts was looking for a positive reaction and he certainly got it.

The Wivenhoe keeper made some good saves to keep the score goalless at the interval but despite playing with the wind against them, Haverhill dominated the second half.

Wardley scored with 20 minutes to go following a corner and Betts' men comfortably held on.

"The conditions were a bit of a leveller but we responded in the right way to the result against Leiston," said Betts.

"We got a win and another clean sheet which we're really pleased with."

Haverhill are at home to Great Yarmouth on Saturday.

Take Wratt! Owen shatters leaders

OWEN Longley struck for West Wrattling in a 1-0 triumph as they sent table-topping Fulbourn to a second Kershaw League, Premier Division defeat in a row.

Longley slotted home early in the second half after good work by Anthony Cullen and Paul Jenkin.

Wrattling manager Craig Fleming said: "I had three of my regular back four missing, but I'm delighted with the players' attitude and commitment considering we were down to the bare bones. Fulbourn had a lot of possession, but didn't really have an end product and we battled very well."

However, basement boys Hundon were sent crashing by Littleport. Although they conceded the first goal after 15 minutes, they held out until the second half before sliding to a 6-0 defeat.

Hope for the future

Haverhill 12 Stowmarket 33
Greene King IPA Eastern Counties League, Division One

HAVERHILL produced a galvanising display in defeat against the league leaders – the last time they met Stowmarket won 104-3.

The visitors went 7-0 ahead, but Chris Flannery was driven over to reduce the deficit to 7-5. However, Stowmarket put their foot down to lead 21-5 at half time.

They got the first try of the second half before Jake Plumridge (right) intercepted in his own 22 and raced the length of the pitch to score under the posts, and then convert.

But Stowmarket got the final points.

"It was outstanding," said Haverhill chairman of playing Tony Hope.

"We got everyone fit and available who we could and every one stood up to the mark. We had a nightmare of a start as we were 7-0 down in the first 20 seconds but we came back and fought hard. It was an outstanding game to watch from both sides.

"They said it was one of the best games Stowmarket have had this season.

"Up front, we smashed them around the park really. Every man stood up and was counted and if we can keep the side going for the rest of the season like that then the boys are on the turn and it's something to look forward to next season."
